Dear Parents / Carers

We are aware a large number of parents were not able to access the Parent Transition Meeting organised by STLS last night. As you already know, due to the amazing response from Maidstone Parents, we had to change platforms from Teams to Zoom in order to allow the 400+ to attend. Unfortunately, the link we were given had not been set to allow 500 attendees and so defaulted to 100. We did not become aware of this situation until just before the meeting officially started and as the Zoom account did not belong to STLS, we were not able to change it.

We would like to apologise for the inconvenience caused and are very aware of how frustrating it must have been for you last night. The good news is that the meeting was recorded. You will find the hyperlink to it below, along with hyperlinks to further information referred to during the presentation. We have also included a link to a feedback questionnaire that we would appreciate you completing once you have seen the meeting recording.

From the chat that took place during the meeting, we have collated the answers to the small number of questions posed (see separate sheet). We have also created a document, which summarises some of the activities you might like to do with your child to support their transition. (see separate sheet)
